DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
Windmill Cove or Brooks Farm is an interesting combination of the mid-nineteenth century dwelling with later 19th century additions. The oldest portion is said to have been moved onto the property by barge. It is a typical two room with center hall, two story frame dwelling. To it was added a section of about equal size, set behind one of the two earlier rooms, extending in the same direction. Porches were built around the later section which extended from the back of the stair hall to the back of the original east fireplace. The facade of the latter section was farther embellished with two gables issueing from the attic roof. The "gingerbread" of the porch and gables is of the same period and adds to the decorative quality of the building. The house is presently undergoing extensive remodeling, including enclosing portions of the porch, covering the exterior with wood shingles and remodeling the interior for more convenient living space.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Windmill Cove is important as a mid and late 19th century structure which grew as the family could afford the changes. It's in very good condition and portions of the house resemble the Bromwell Farm near Madison.
